Mr. W. H. Turner spent Sunday and Monday in Greenwood with his family. We hope it will not be long before he will bring them to Edgefield to reside permanently.

Do not fail to hear the Crescent Concert Company in the opera house Thursday evening. They have delighted large audiences in the leading cities and will not fail to please our people.

Since the new year a number of the Edgefield merchants have taken stock and their books show a very satisfactory business for the year 1913.

A joint meeting of the medical associations of Edgefield, Aiken, Barnwell and Saluda was held at Johnston yesterday. The dentists of Edgefield were invited to meet with the physicians.

The members of the Edgefield chapter, U. D. C., will hold their regular monthly meeting January 19, at 8:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Mamie N. Tillman.

The Advertiser inadvertently omitted calling attention to the large box of nice things that was sent out to the County Home Christmas-eve by the members of the Edgefield chapter, U. D. C.

Supervisor A. A. Edmunds stated to The Advertiser's representative a few days ago that all of the material for the Key bridge is on the ground and the work on the bridge will be pushed as soon as the weather permits. All of the material for the bridge has been paid for.

You will regret it if you fail to hear the Crescent Concert Company which is to give a high class entertainment in the opera house Thursday evening under the lyceum management. A miscellaneous program will be presented which will not fail to please the Edgefield people.

It has been some time since the last lyceum entertainment was given, consequently our people are eager for the next number on the course. This will be given in the opera house Thursday evening by a quartet of gifted young ladies who are highly recommended as entertainers. Do not fail to hear them.

Mr. S. T. Williams has been elected a member of the board of visitors of Clemson college. He will serve for two years. Mr. Williams is not only a practical farmer who has been signally successful but he possesses unusual judgment as a business man and will make a valuable member of the board of visitors of Clemson.

Mr. C. M. Mellichamp and his beautiful girlish bride attended the oyster supper given by Concordia lodge Friday evening. They were heartily congratulated, this being the first time they have mingled with Edgefield friends since their marriage on December 25. Both of these young people have many friends in Edgefield.

Attention is directed to the advertisement of the Farmers Bank in this issue. It is one of the strongest banks in the state, the surplus fund being more than the capital stock. The volume of the bank's business has steadily grown from year to year and it continues to solicit the patronage of the people, offering every accommodation consistent with round business principles.

SELLING OUT—175 pair men's and boy's Shoes, at cost. at Bright's.

Mr. and Mrs. Berrien Walker, accompanied by their two sons, David and Tom, are here spending some time with Capt. and Mrs. N. G. Evans.

Mr. S. T. Williams received the announcement a few days ago of the death of his brother-in-law, Mr. Hyom Cohen, which occurred in Hubbard, Texas. Mr. Williams' sister, Miss Mattie Williams, went to Texas in 1884 and soon thereafter married Mr. Cohen.

Mr. E. S. Johnson has sold his mercantile business near the depot to Mr. L. Powell of Aiken. The transfer was formally made Monday. Mr. Powell also conducts a store in Aiken. He resided here about 10 years ago and has been cordially greeted upon his return.

Mr. H. E. Quarles has moved back to Red Hill to make his home. Edgefield gives him up with regret. Any community is fortunate in having a young man of such sterling qualities as a citizen. He will resume his mercantile business and Mr. J. W. McDaniel will be associated with him.

Although the register does not contain her name, yet a little lady, accompanied by the Stork, arrived Friday to become a permanent guest at the Hotel DuBose. LETTER FROM GEORGIA.

"Uncle Iv" Morgan Writes Characteristic Letter From His Adopted Home in Georgia.

My dear young friend: I rather call you that than Mr. Editor. When will The Advertiser come to me? I miss it so much in my new place of abode. Well myself and a portion of my family took dinner with Mr. Sam Cheatham. Yes, Sam Cheatham, Edgefield Sam, honey Sam; yes, he raises honey yet and sweetens his coffee with it. So I thought that it wouldn't do for Sam to get ahead of Uncle Iv, so I put some honey in my coffee too but also put in a pretty good chunk of cheese. What did we have for dinner. Well now were I to tell all the different kinds of food I am afraid it would cost you something for there would not be as much space for advertising. Both of H. W. Doherty's daughters were there. Oh yes I forgot we had goose for dinner a fattened goose, not one caught up from the flock and killed, no sir a goose fattened like a pig. Was the goose good? why sir I now feel like saying hoo kunk, but I am rather afraid for fear I might want to fly.

But there was something that made me feel sad. Mr. Cheatham's son Charlie, has gone to Asheville, N. C., to be treated for consumption and his mother has gone to be with him for awhile.

How am I pleased with my move? All right so far. Haven't regretted it yet and see no reason why I should if we keep our health. Yes, I expect to have some cotton this year and as a proof of it I have found a hoe about fifteen or eighteen inches wide and sharp too so I don't guess I can go barefooted this summer or I might be minus a toe.

Oh yes, I forgot but the reason I did was because I am an old man and have a wife on the road which is two and a half miles to Mr. Cheatham's would not seem more than a mile. Why? because there are two as fine looking girls there as I have met in Georgia or left up where I came from, and not only fine looking but so friendly and such good cooks. Can't you send down a couple of Edgefield boys? I don't feel like I want anybody but an Edgefield boy to win them for his house-keeper. Lucky boy that does, but Mr. Editor you need not tell everybody what I have said, or the Georgia and Florida railroad will have to attach an extra coach to bring the boys down here.

What kind of cows, hogs, horses, mules, sheep and goats have they down here. Well sir some as good of every kind that there is anywhere, but of course now and they you see a hog with its tail nearly reaching the ground and a few cows that those who know say will give from a pint to a quart of milk a day. And rivers that dry up in the summer but in the latter part of the winter get from fifty to one hundred yards wide, and while in this swollen condition quantity of fishes come up from the large rivers and during the summer months those who know say you can dip them out with a net a mess at a dip.

Well, I guess that goose is about digested and I had better say good night, but regards to all my Edgefield friends. When I am here awhile longer I will see about the coons in the swamps. But when I got here a man told me that brother Johnnie had requested him to put a big cow bell on me when I started for the swamps to hunt or fish or I might get lost.

Uncle Iv.

Best Cough Medicine for Children.

I am very glad to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's cough remedy writes Mrs. Lida Dewey, Milwaukee, Wis. "I have used it for years both for my children and myself and it never fails to relieve and cure a cough or cold.

No family with children should be without it as it gives almost immediate relief in cases of croup."

Chamberlain's cough remedy is pleasant and safe to take, which is of great importance when a medicine must be given to young children. For sale by all dealers.
